Assessment 2016 – Assessment Criteria Changes

Criteria	Key changes compared to 2015
Materiality	RobecoSAM has further developed its methodology for assessing how companies identify and report on material issues for their business. This topic was previously addressed in the Environmental Reporting and Social Reporting criteria. It now features in the Economic Dimension, and encourages companies to identify the economic, environmental and/or social issues that are most material to their business – explaining how are these linked to their business drivers and whether executive compensation is aligned with long-term metrics to measure progress on these issues.
Impact Measurement & Valuation	Corporate Social Responsibility and Corporate Philanthropy programs are evolving, and measuring their impact is becoming more common. As a result, RobecoSAM has developed the Impact Measurement & Valuation criterion. The purpose of this new criterion is to assess whether companies have developed specific business programs to address societal needs and if they are measuring and valuing their broader societal impacts. Business programs for social needs are initiatives that specifically generate business value through addressing the issues and needs of society, for example, as expressed by the UN Sustainable Development Goals.
Labor Practice Indicators and Human Rights	Previous questions on business and human rights have been reviewed and replaced with a new set of 4 questions that evaluate a company’s commitment to human rights in line with the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. The new questions assess whether companies have detailed corporate human rights policies, if they have due diligence processes in place, whether they conduct human rights risk assessments and the extent to which they disclose this information in the public domain.
Brand Management	The Brand Management criterion has been updated in collaboration with Interbrand, a global brand consultancy. As a result, previous brand management questions have been replaced by a set of 3 questions that focus on how companies position their brands and use sustainability as a differentiating factor. The new set of questions is only applied to consumer-oriented industries, and the criterion has been deleted from the other industries.

DJSI Selection Rules

- 1. Eligibility: Companies are only eligible for selection if their score is at least 40% of the highest score within the respective index universe.
- 2. Best-in-class selection*: Select 10% best companies per industry for World (20% for World Enlarged/regional indices, 30% for country indices, 10% for Emerging Markets).
- 3. Error margin: Select companies outside the best-in-class interval if they are within an absolute 0.3 score distance of the last company selected in the respective industry in step 2.
- 4. Buffer rule: Select existing components if they are within the top 15% of their industry for World (30% for World Enlarged/regional indices, 45% for country indices, 15% for Emerging Markets).

* Industries may be merged to ensure that at least one company can be selected at the best-in-class level (provided it passes the eligibility criteria).
